

Children Story by Jacinth Aunty

Dear Children,

We have entered into the Advent season. Now-a-days in everybody's house we talk about Christmas purchases, decorations, outings and other things. But we should analyze and see whether we are really practicing what Jesus has taught us to do?

I just want to narrate a story to revive ourselves in our lord Jesus Christ. In a small village there lived a little girl named Bala who had a friend named Mala. Both were very close and good friends, studying in the same school and in the same class. As it was a Christian school, they planned for the Christmas program and selected Mala as an angel and Bala as innkeeper's daughter. They both were extremely happy as they are going to act together in the play.

One day before the finals when they were taking practice on the stage, one teacher was telling the other one, as Mala is having nice curly hair she was taken for angel and as Bala is looking ugly she was taken as the innkeeper's daughter. Bala over heard this and felt very bad. Satan entered in her heart. So she started hating Mala and always fights with her for nothing even if she gives her chocolates.

Now came the annual school day program in which the teachers selected Mala as queen and Bala as Haman for the queen Esther play.

But Mala told the teachers that Bala is the perfect choice as she will act better than me and the teachers refused to accept it. So Bala fought with Mala and stopped talking with her. During the rehearsal when they kept the crown on Mala's head Bala was very jealous and Satan started his game with her. Satan told her don't go for the final day program in the evening. She obeyed the Satan's voice and did the same by acting as if she couldn't get up from the bed thinking that without her the that particular play will stop. Her family members left her and went to attend the program. When they came home at night, they told that the Esther play was very nice and even the Haman who acted in the last minute also did very well. Next day when she went to the school, she came to know that, the person who came to give away the prizes gave a surprise to all the students who took part in the play by giving dinner at night and also gave them a gift. Bala felt very bad for her jealousy over Mala and also for listening to Satan's voice but, what she can do now? Mala was still Bala's good friend. Though she doesn't talk with her, she took this as the chance and brought the doll which she got as the gift and kept it at Bala's place during the interval time. When Bala came after the interval, she saw a gift in her place along with a letter stating that still I love you and want to be your best friend. When Bala saw the letter she broke into pieces. Went to Mala caught her hand and told her that as she listened to the Satan's voice she couldn't behave properly with her. She told Mala, in spite of my misbehaving, jealous and anger also, how you were able to forgive me? Mala answered that I learnt it from our lord Jesus Christ.

Dear children like Bala you should not feel jealous of others nor listening to Satan's voice also. God has created everybody with special features and talents. So my dear children read Bible regularly, pray, attend the church, Sunday school and take part in all church activities. Read I Corinthians 13: 5, 6.

May god bless you to follow the foot prints of our lord Jesus Christ to be a model for everybody around you and help you to celebrate this Christmas meaningfully.
